Once you are back at the Language section, click Cherokee. There are three buttons that drop down once the language is clicked. To change your display language to Cherokee, click "Set as default". To finalize the changes, resart your PC.

(This will change all display text to Cherokee syllabary. This includes menus, folder options, error messages, and much more.)

Click the Windows button in the bottom left corner of your screen. Restart can be found on the menu that appears once you click "Power".

Cherokee Phonetic CWV

You will now see the Keyboards section. Click "Add a keyboard" and two keyboards will drop down. You have two choices, Cherokee Nation and Cherokee Phonetic. Cherokee Nation is a one keystroke keyboard and Cherokee Phonetic displays syllabary as you type the sound that represents each Cherokee syllabary glyph. You can have one or both keyboards active.

Cherokee Nation will be active by default when you add Cherokee to your languages.

You can change your keyboards by clicking the button in the bottom right of your screen, adjacent to your time and date. When English is active you will see ENG US. When Cherokee is active, CWY will be shown on this button. There is no restart required to add keyboards.
